EXPERIENCE

Sean E. Withall is a partner in the technology transactions practice in Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati's Palo Alto office. Sean represents technology companies of all sizes in a variety of industries, including cloud computing, artificial intelligence and machine learning, autonomous vehicles, robotics, software and hardware, fintech, and many others.

Sean has deep expertise structuring and negotiating complex commercial transactions, including joint development deals, global distribution arrangements, and licenses to large data sets for clients ranging from cutting-edge startups to Fortune 500 companies. Sean also counsels clients on a variety of other significant commercial and intellectual property transactions, including customer, supply, and distribution agreements, intellectual property licenses, and manufacturing agreements.

Before practicing law, Sean developed smartphone apps and served for a year as an AmeriCorps VISTA volunteer.
