EXPERIENCE

As chief information officer for Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Jeffrey Lolley spearheads the firm's global technology strategy, driving innovation and digital excellence across the firm's offices worldwide. He excels at identifying and deploying transformative technologies that redefine how the firm serves its pioneering client base.

Jeff's forward-thinking approach is deeply rooted in his entrepreneurial experience. Early in his career, he was an integral part of what became Verizon Cybertrust, a venture whose explosive success earned it repeated placement on the Inc. 500 list of America's fastest-growing private companies. This foundational experience in a high-growth start-up environment instilled in him a unique perspective on scaling innovation.

Today, Jeff translates that experience into a powerful vision for the future of legal tech. He leverages his expertise—honed through groundbreaking research positions with AT&T Bell Laboratories and senior advisory roles for the White House and U.S. Space Command—to turn technological promise into reality. This unique blend of corporate and start-up acumen makes him a sought-after advisor in the tech community, where he actively mentors the next generation of innovators.

Recognized for his forward-thinking approach by publications like Bloomberg Law and The National Law Journal, Jeff also shares his expertise as a professor at the University of Maryland, where he lectures on the intersection of technology and strategy, preparing future leaders to navigate and excel in an increasingly digital world.
