EXPERIENCE

Timothy (Tim) Kobes is senior counsel in the Washington, D.C., office of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, where he advises clients on regulatory and compliance matters related to government grants and procurements. His practice includes supporting all phases of grant and contract life cycles, including eligibility determination, teaming agreement and joint venture formation, bid and proposal support, contract administration, and program closeout.

With broad industry experience in legal, compliance, and operational roles across multiple industries, Tim provides a deep understanding of legal and regulatory requirements as well as the practical challenges faced by companies supporting government customers. His experience includes overseeing contract management functions for large government contractors, managing contracts with more than $3 billion a year in revenue and proposal activity of more than $8 billion. He has also assisted small companies and technology start-ups obtain their first government grants and contracts, establish compliance and risk management programs, and balance public sector requirements with commercial operations. Tim has worked with a wide variety of government customers, including the Department of Defense, Department of Energy, Department of Homeland Security, Department of State, NASA, and USAID, as well as foreign governments and intergovernmental organizations.
