EXPERIENCE

Matthew P. Dubofsky is a partner in the Boulder office of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, where he focuses on the corporate and transactional representation of technology and healthcare companies. He also advises issuers and underwriters on capital markets transactions, and represents both buy- and sell-side clients in M&A transactions. In addition, he represents venture capital funds and companies in equity financing transactions. Matt's clients range from early-stage start-ups through pre-IPO, in addition to public companies, and he has deep experience across a variety of industries, including information technology, cybersecurity, software, retail, healthcare, biotechnology, and medical devices.

Before joining Wilson Sonsini, Matt was a partner in Cooley's Denver office, where he began as an associate in 2007 and became partner in 2015. Prior to that, he was an associate at Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom in New York. He previously served as a law clerk to Judge Timothy M. Tymkovich of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit.
