

WILSON SONSINI

Emily Chan

ASSOCIATE

Technology
Transactions

Palo Alto

emily.chan@wsgr.com
650-565-3920

FOCUS AREAS

Digital Media and Entertainment
Electronic Gaming
Mobility
Technology Transactions

EXPERIENCE

Emily Chan is an associate in the technology transactions practice in Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati's Palo Alto office. Emily focuses her practice on intellectual property, licensing, and commercial transactions. Her practice covers a wide range of activities related to the commercialization of technology, such as strategic commercial transactions, financings, and mergers and acquisitions. She has advised clients across a wide range of technology-focused industries at all stages of growth, particularly in SaaS, cryptocurrency and fintech, digital health, digital entertainment, and consumer internet and mobile apps.

Additionally, Emily provides counsel for numerous pro bono clients including small businesses and nonprofits, and asylum and U visa applicants.

Prior to joining the technology transactions group, Emily was a corporate associate at Wilson Sonsini with experience in public offerings and public company reporting, venture financings, and mergers and acquisitions. Prior to joining Wilson Sonsini, Emily was a corporate associate at a top-tier law firm in New York, where she published numerous articles on SEC regulation of cryptocurrencies.

CREDENTIALS

Education

- J.D., Harvard Law School, 2018
Senior Editor, Harvard Journal of Law and Technology
- B.A., Political Science, Wellesley College, 2011
Cum Laude, Pi Sigma Alpha

Admissions

- State Bar of California
- State Bar of New York

INSIGHTS

Select Publications

- Co-author, "Do's and Don'ts for Developing, Extending, and Using Generative AI Models," The Computer & Internet Lawyer, May 2, 2023